Subject (in full) Communist handbills bearing on the Anniversary of General Chiang Kai-shek's Anti-Communist Campaign - April 12, 1927.

Made by D.I. Kuh Pao-hwa.

Forwarded by

I forward herewith together with summarized translation of two specimen copies of communist handbills bearing on the above anniversary which were found by the Municipal Police at the corners of Nanking-Kwangse and Nanking-Kweichow Roads apparently thrown from the Building of the Sun Sun Departmental Store, Nanking Road, during the evening of April 12 :-

(1) Handbill entitled "Manifesto issued by the Shanghai Labour Federation (Old Labour Union) to recruit new members on the occasion of the 'April 12 Anniversary'," dated 12.4.33, exhorting workers in Shanghai to unite and join the Shanghai Labour Federation, and to oppose the attack of the imperialists as well as Kuomintang capitalists on labourers.

(2) Handbill containing slogans, purporting to have emanated from the Shanghai Labour Federation (Old Labour Union) urging local workers to declare a general strike and to hold demonstrations on April 12, to revive the Shanghai Labour Federation, to oppose the 'White Terror' and to demand improved working conditions.

At 10.30 a.m. April 9, the Municipal Police, at the request of the Chinese Authorities, arrested a communist suspect named Liu Ping-wan (廖平万) on Boone Road. A search of his home, at 2108 Boone Road, unearthed a large quantity of communist literature. In consequence of this arrest, raids were carried out on certain other addresses, two further arrests were made and where further communist circulars seized. The three accused upon appearing before the Second Branch of the Kiangsu High Court on April 12 were extradited to the Chinese Authorities.

At 4 p.m. April 10, the Chapel Police raided 153 Jiu Hong Lee (朱江里), off Dixwell Road, C.O.L., and arrested a communist suspect named Wu To Fun (符读分) and seized a quantity of communistic literature.

Anniversary of the Anti-Communist Campaign Started by General Chiang Kai-shek

Under the auspices of the local Kuomintang, a meeting in commemoration of the above-mentioned anniversary was held in the local Kuomintang Headquarters, West Gate, between 10.30 and 11.30 a.m. April 12, when some 50 persons claiming to represent local public bodies attended. Speeches appropriate to the occasion were made.

A similar meeting was held in the 5th District Kuomintang Branch, 215 Police Station Road, Footing, on the same forenoon, some 40 persons mostly Kuomintang members being present.

COMMUNISM

Min Pao and other local newspapers:

ANNIVERSARY OF KUOMINTANG PURIFICATION MOVEMENT.

To-day being the 6th Anniversary of the Kuomintang Purification Movement, local official organs, public bodies and schools will hold a general meeting at 10 a.m. in the hall of the Shanghai Special District Kuomintang, Ling Ying Road, West Gate, to commemorate the occasion.

Yesterday the local Tangpu issued a circular notice calling on the public to participate in the commemoration meeting.

The following slogans will be shouted:-

- 1) Consolidate sincerely to deal with foreign aggressions.
- 2) Exterminate all reactionary elements.
- 3) Exert every effort in the bandit-suppression campaign.
- 4) Work for the completion of district self-government.
- 5) Overthrow the Japanese Imperialists.
- 6) Observe the will of Dr. Sun Yat Sen.
- 7) Long live the Three Principles of the People.
- 8) Long live the Chinese Kuomintang.
- 9) Long live the Republic of China.

The Public Safety Bureau and the Settlement Police have received a secret report to the effect that Communist elements are planning to incite unemployed workers to hold demonstrations and processions to-day and that the radicals will create disturbances at the various passes leading from Chinese controlled territory to the foreign Settlements.

As a precautionary measures, the Chinese and the Settlement authorities will declare martial law from 8 a.m. to-day until midnight. Double point duty policemen will be detailed in Nantao and Chapei and Chinese detectives will be assigned to busy sectors on search party duty. Armed members of the Peace Preservation Corps will patrol the streets. Chinese and foreign detectives and policemen of the Settlement authorities will also be detailed for duty. All the iron gates on roads leading from Chinese controlled territory to the foreign Settlements will be closed. Red Emergency Vans will be active on the streets.

In order to prevent Communists from mingling with labour bodies, the Shanghai Special District Kuomintang has ordered all labour unions not to hold meetings to-day.

No. 4756
Date 12, 4, 33

Translation of official despatch No: 39 from Wen Hung-en, Chief of the Public Safety Bureau of the Municipality of Greater Shanghai, to Major Gerrard, Commissioner of the Shanghai Municipal Police, dated April 11, 1933.

According to a confidential report received, local labourers in the employ of Japanese cotton mills in the Eastern and Western Districts of Shanghai will hold demonstrations on April 12, a labour anniversary day. They will hold meetings and distribute circulars.

Taking advantage of this opportunity, Communists will attempt to instigate an "April 12" Strike, hold demonstrations, inaugurate the Labourers' Picketing Groups and commemorate the martyrs.

Apart from ordering my subordinates to adopt precautionary measures, I send you this despatch with a request that you will direct your subordinates to act likewise.

According to information secured by Agents

A-4263 and 4382, no definite instructions have been issued by either the Provincial or the District Committees to the local subordinate branches of the Chinese Communist Party regarding the commemoration of the Anniversary of General Chiang Kai-shek's Anti-Communist Campaign, which falls on April 12.

It is, however, anticipated that handbills bearing on the occasion may be surreptitiously disseminated in the vicinity of industrial concerns in the Eastern and Western Districts sometime during the day.
